

NEW POWER & ANCIENT KNOWLEDGE

Storyteller Dr. Shanna Peoples discusses the many lessons ancient civilizations who once occupied the land now known as the Texas Panhandle, like the Antelope Creek people, can teach modern communities. She says, "If those who came before us were able to survive and thrive for so long on the land, what might we learn from them today in order to do the same?" What ancient civilizations once lived on the land you now call home, and what might your community learn from them that could benefit people now? Spend some time researching these ancient people, then consider the questions below to learn from and apply their wisdom today.

Who once lived where I now live?	How did they make use of this land & its resources?	How did they treat one another?

What might ancient civilizations teach us about how to best use resources?

What might ancient civilizations teach us about how to navigate a changing climate?

What might ancient civilizations teach us about how to create a more just society?
